PHDCCI Economic Monitor (December 2024)

The PHDCCI Economic Monitor analyzes the factors that influence India's macroeconomic fundamentals, trade and investment flows, and global economic scenario along with developments in India's States. India's macroeconomic fundamentals remain steady in the recent months, supported by growth in indicators including IIP, Core Infra, Exports, and financial markets. State's economic environment also witnessed various developments across different socio-economic segments. States are in a healthy competition and adopting the best practices of each other to attain higher growth and attract more and more investments in their respective territories. At the international front, many economies are facing deceleration in GDP growth rates and inflation trajectory in some economies remains beyond their tolerance levels.
